FOOTBALL

The VARSITY FOOTBALL team had plenty of ups and downs during their season. Off to a good 4-0 start, the team's fate was decided against a tough contender, Forest Grove, in 3 overtimes, and in 5 overtimes against a good Tigard team.

Injuries played an important role keeping few players out for the season.

The squad finished on top of the league in defense, but it was a year for rebuilding the offense. Coach Crawford commented, "The work of the defensive unit was outstanding. They worked hard, hit well, and they pulled together; I enjoyed the attitude of the whole team." There were only 5 touchdowns given up, and 6 shutouts were recorded.

The offensive play of Doug Moshofsky earned him all-state second team honors at guard. Another player who showed potential and made all-league first team was Scott Bullock, who, along with teammate Dave Bushnell, kept the secondary steady, while the linebacking of Rich Morean earned him all league honors. The defensive line work of Mickey Stenberg, also an all-league selection, and Mike King was solid. Other people who helped the team were defensive ends John Engler and Chris Abbott.

The offensive squad showed signs of strength early in the season, but the injuries took their toll in the line and in the backfield as well. Despite this they finished fourth in the league. Al Stienhaus made second team all-league for his work at tackle, and fullback Jeff Young for his rushing.

The team's enthusiasm held up throughout the year with the help of our hard working coaches John Scotty, Larry Bowman, and Head Coach Boyd Crawford.

The coaches predict good things to happen for next year with 16 returning lettermen including junior starters Dave Souther, Brian Long, Scott Spinks, and teammate Mark Stathas. Returning sophomore lettermen will be Bill Carr and Steve Bartholemy.

In assessing the season, coaches Scotty and Bowman commented, "It was a good season. We improved a lot more than we thought we would, but it was our inexperience in those close games that hurt us. We felt good about the year because we had such a good attitude."

J.V. FOOTBALL

The J.V. FOOTBALL team concluded an excellent season by defeating Lakeridge 14-6 to go unbeaten in league play.

The team which was 8-1 on the year, was paced by running backs Win Jeanfreau and Mike Jarman, and by quarterback Mike Field.

The only Laker loss came in the second game of the season to West Linn. After that defeat the J.V.'s started league play and their six game winning streak.

Coaches John Lortz and Rich Anderson did an excellent job with the squad and extended their two-year tandem record to 17-1.

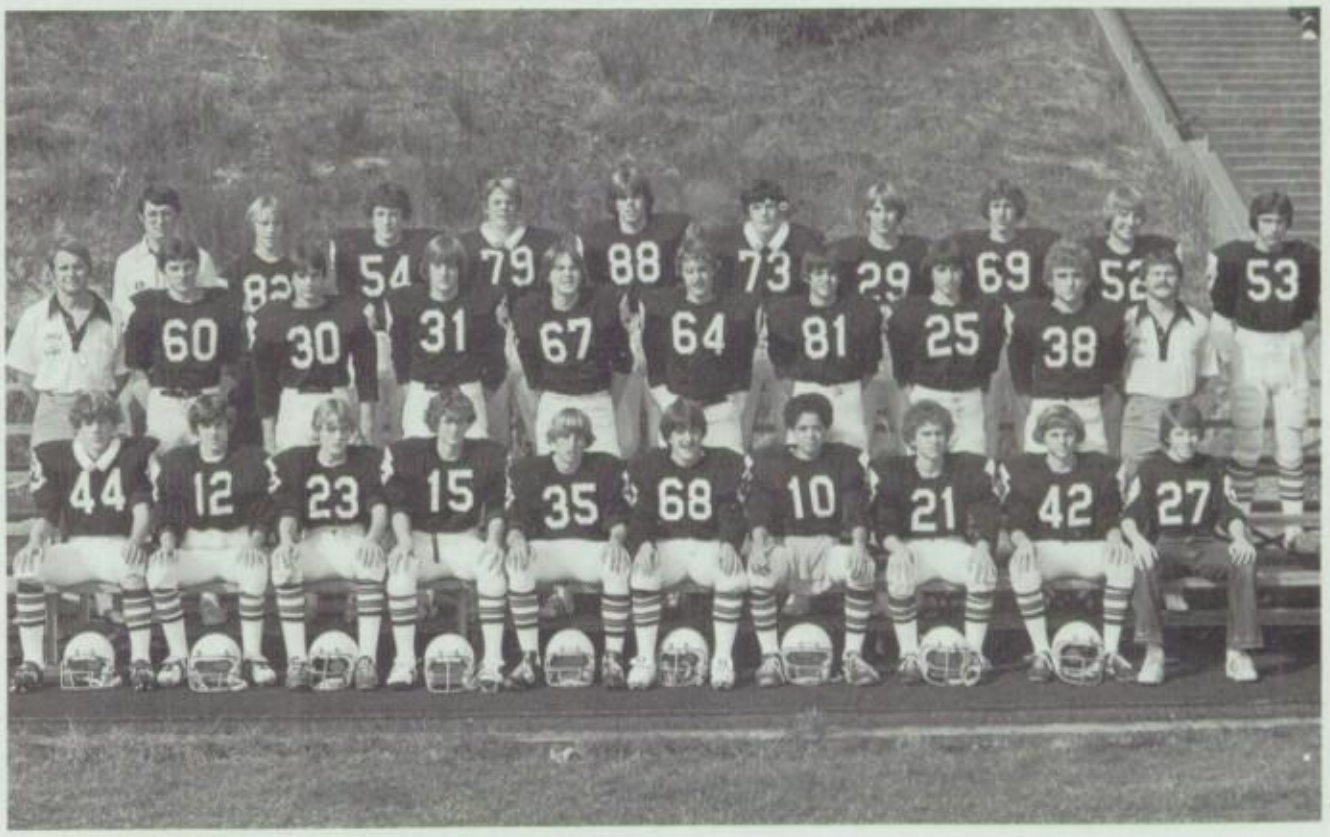
FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

The 1979 Freshman Football team compiled an excellent 7-1 record, losing only to Neil Armstrong Junior High in the final game of the season.

The offense, which scored 200 points and amassed 2300 yards, was characterized by a strong running attack. Running backs Dave Bullock, Charlie Kirschbaum, and Trip Turner all averaged more than 6 yards per carry. Quarterback Mike Scotty completed 50% of his passes for 347 yards. Bob Griffith led the receiving corps with six touchdown receptions.

A strong defense allowed opponents an average of only 140 yards per game. Key defensive performers were Charlie Kirschbaum, Dave Bullock, Tom Talbot, and Mark Baysinger.

Relative freedom from injuries and the depth of the thirty man squad were both instrumental in the successful season.



1. Trip Turner scampers downfield after receiving a kick.
2. Quarterback Mike Scotty releases a pass to a favorite target.
3. Scott Carr executes a handoff.

BOYS' SOCCER

The BOYS' VARSITY SOCCER team had a successful year with a winning 8-6-4 season overall.

The pre-season was disappointing for the Laker team after an 0-3-2 tally. But as soon as the season started, the Laker team fired up to compile a 5-1-2 League record. In the playoffs the Laker team scored a 1-0 win against Beaverton, a team ranked above them all year. As Coach Edmonds said, "On any given day we were as good as any team in state." With the win against Beaverton the soccer team went down to Corvallis to play Crescent Valley and lost 2-0 to a "lucky" Cresent Valley offense.

A lot of young talent from past J.V. and Frosh squads helped this year's team. Neil Megson, Brian Lambertsen, Todd Fauvelle and Trey Acteson all made first team All-Stars. Along with being an All-Star nominee, Neil Megson set a school record for goals scored in a season (19) and goals scored in one game (5). He also led the Willamette Valley League in scoring. Brian Lambertsen finished in the top 10 in scoring with 8 goals and 9 assists. Todd Fauvelle finished in the top 15 in scoring with 6 goals and 6 assists. Trey Acteson had a much better year this year with 5 shutouts in goal.

12 returnees and some promising talent from J.V. make the future look bright for the Lake Oswego Laker Soccer team for years to come.

J.V. SOCCER

The 1979 J.V. team finished the season with a 6-6-2 record. The team, Made up of mostly Sophomores, showed great improvement from past J.V. squads.

This team played a very tough schedule, and except for the four tough losses to Lakeridge, they were able to play the best J.V. teams in the state on an even basis. The members of this team, combined with the returning Varsity lettermen should keep the Laker soccer team in contention for state honors in the years to come.

On the season the J.V. Lakers scored 29 goals while giving up 28. Leading scorers were Mike Benjamin and Keith Bandettini. Other outstanding performers were Kris Mavity, Eric Meeuwsen, Sean Griffin, John Webb, and Scott Cameron.

FROSH SOCCER

This was a year of high expectations for the Laker freshman as the team was loaded with sound soccer talent. However, injuries to key players frustrated the achievement of the "dream" season that the team had anticipated.

The Laker frosh finished their season with a respectable 8-4-2 record and was paced by high-scoring midfielder Denis Cornforth and the aggressive play of Jim Graeper and Mark Shepard. The future appears very promising for the Laker soccer program as the nucleus of the freshman team moves on to compete for varsity positions.

GYMNASTICS

The GIRLS' GYMNASTICS team had an excellent season this year. Their record was 4 wins and 1 loss. They tied for first place in the league, and received fourth place as a team at district. Shelby Acteson, Jean Egge, and Beth Long were all finalists at district, Shelby performing on the bars, beam, vault and floor, Jean performing on the beam and floor, and Beth performing on the beam. Coach Wells stated, "The team had a very successful season. The girls pulled together to win as a team, but the individual results were also just as important."

After a disappointing first half of league play, the L.O. varsity volleyball team rebounded to capture first place during the second round of the season and earned a right to participate in the Willamette Valley League playoffs. At the peak of their game the Lakers went on a winning spree of 16 consecutive games, including 12 straight at the Oregon City tournament. The team's success at the end of the season sparked a renewed confidence and enthusiasm.

Coach Rick Deuel commented that, "The team learned that there is more satisfaction in a winning team effort than in individual accomplishment. Teamwork, hustle, and , of course, a good winning attitude are essential for a successful season. I am really proud of the girls and believe there is a bright future ahead of them."

FROSH VOLLEYBALL

The frosh girls had a great turnout for the team this year, recruiting 13 players. Despite its 5-13 record, the team performed better than the scoreboard indicated. The girls gained valuable competetive experience and showed marked improvement over the season. Many of them will be returning to add depth and experience to the volleyball program in future years.

The team was sparked by the leadership of co-captians Gretchen Empey and Kathy McKinney. However, every player made an important contribution to an all-around team effort.

GIRLS' SOCCER

The L.O. GIRLS' SOCCER team entered the season as an unknown quantity. Graduation had depleted the previous year's state co-champion team to four experienced starters — seniors Darlene Davis, Stephanie Heisler, Lisa Lortz, and junior Linda Brock. From the junior varsity team came juniors Joan Cunningham, Kathy Strickler and sophomores Noel Ainsworth and Denise Oka. Fortunately, a large number of freshman turned out to fill key positions. Freshmen playing varsity were Clare Krill, Amy Cannon, Lisa Rowning, Dawn Fricke, Teresa Howard, Dana Dietz, and Lisa Schlenker.

Senior Leadership, improvement of the J.V. players, and the development of an unusually talented group of freshmen was the combination needed to make a successful year. As the season progressed, despite injuries to the key people, the girls exceeded everyone's expectations and finished the regular season with a 10-2-3 record and a playoff berth into the state soccer championship playoffs. The Lakers advanced to the semi-finals after a 1-0 win over South Eugene. Playing their best game of the year, the girls lost out to the eventual state champ, Aloha, after dominating play and losing in a shoot out 3 to 2. By the end of the year, the Laker Girls' soccer team had become a quantity that everyone on the team could take pride in — one of the top teams in the state.

J.V. SOCCER

The J.V. soccer squad completed their season with a record of 10 wins, 2 losses, and 2 ties. The team's leading scorers were Suzanne McFarland and Dee Maxwell. Strong defensive support by Lyn Kershaw, Jane Kulcera, Mary Simpson, and Brenda Bond also played an important role in the team's success. Goalie Nicky Wagner did an outstanding job, allowing only one score.

The team showed marked improvement over the season. Most of the players will be returning next year to add experience and leadership to the soccer program.

CROSS COUNTRY

This year's Boys' Cross Country team finished with a winning 5-2 record, while the girls compiled a 1-6 meet record. The boys came in third and the girls sixth among the eight teams in the district. Vance Blow was District champion, and Cherie Brambilla finished fifth in the district meet. As Coach Mike Moorad commented, "The highlight of the season was having an individual district champion in Vance, and seeing Cherie finish fifth after she missed the last half of the regular season."

The future looks bright for L.O. Cross Country. Several returnees, including two freshman boys, Mike Flake and Mike Mick, who made the varsity squad, will bring an added year of experience into the coming season. Coach Moorad stated, "The team is young and has great potential for improvement."

BASKETBALL

The L.O. Varsity Boys Basketball team had a fine 16-6 record during 1979-1980. Although the season ended short of state tournament competition, Coach Sonny Long expressed satisfaction with the team's performance throughout the year. He commented that, "Injury and sickness, perhaps, keep the team from reaching post-season play." The Lakers were, however, in contention for a playoff berth throughout the season and did receive high state rankings at times.

There were some very fine wins against Jesuit, West Linn, and Lakeridge. A final second heartbreaking loss to Lakeridge in their last meeting was probably the season's big disappointment.

Individually, Steve Nelson and Scott Bullock played well all year and dominated the Laker scoring statistics. David Zeuske developed into a solid rebounding and scoring postman. John Hearn played exceptionally well and was cited as the team's best defensive player. Juniors Brian Long and Barry Helm were the team's most consistent underclassmen. Tim McCloskey was the team's leader. Nelson and Bullock received second team All-League honors, while Zeuske and Barry Helm were awarded honorable mention recognition.

Coach Long said, "It was a successful season due to the hard work and dedication exhibited by the entire team. There were many hours of off-season work. The team worked well together and responded positively during crucial situations. I am satisfied with player output and team development. We were all disappointed in not accomplishing some of our goals, such as a league championship and state tourney play."

For the future the Lakers have three good lettermen retuning — Barry Helm, Brian Long, and Terry Wheeler, plus several prospects from a fine 18-2 J.V. team. The entire Laker program was a combined 88-18. This indicates a solid program for the future.

JV BASKETBALL

The J.V. Boys had a very successful season, finishing undefeated in league competition and with an 18-2 record overall. Coach Duell commented that all the players were great and recognized in particular the outstanding play of Jeff Bowman, Doug Haas, Korhy Harlan, John Lamoreux, and Randy Schiff. Highlights of the season were the two 2 point victories over Lakeridge.

Coach Duell said, "The guys had great talent to go along with excellent attitudes. They were just plain fun to coach. They played well as a team and accepted every challenge given to them. They should be well-prepared for varsity ball next year."

SOPH BASKETBALL

This year's team had a winning 19-3 record, second best in the Sophomore league. Coach Healea commented, "This was a very satisfying season because the team learned to execute our system on both ends of the floor. All of the players had a great attitude and hustled to win."

Russell Livingston, Glen Hoffinger, Steve Schade, Jim Engelerdt and Scott Edwards all performed well for the Lakers.

Success can be attributed to the team concept and team attitude. Coach Healea added, "Each player knew his role and accepted the roles of other players. Several members of the team will be moving up to the J.V. and perhaps the varsity level next season."

FROSH NAVY

The Frosh Navy team finished the year with a strong 17-4 record. They scored an average of almost 57 points per game while yielding opponents only 37. Coach English expressed his satisfaction with their performance but added, "Due to injuries and sickness we never really came together to play as a team and reach our full potential."

Individually, Heinka Peterson and Trip Turner led in most offensive statistics and Bob Griffith paced the club in the rebounding department. Pete Niebergall led in assists. Overall, it was a successful introduction to the Laker brand of basketball for these freshman.

FROSH WHITE

The Frosh White, coached by Mr. Scotty, had a final record of 18 wins and 3 defeats. The season highlights were the wins over Lakeridge by both frosh teams.

Individually, Dave Bullock paced the team in scoring with 298 points and added 78 rebounds. Tom Talbot led in blocked shots, recoveries, and rebounding statistics. Kirby Kanada was commended for his fine leadership at the playmaking point position in addition to his fine 11.5 scoring average.

Coach Scotty commented that, "It was generally a very satisfying season with constant individual and team improvement."

SWIMMING

The Laker swim teams were again strong participants in Oregon high school swimming. However, this year was a little more eventful than the previous few seasons.

Both the girls and boys teams went undefeated in league dual meets and captured WVL titles. Each team lost one during the year the girls to Medford by 6 points and the boys to eventual State Champion Cottage Grove.

The girls team was led by junior All-American Sue Habernigg, Gigi Hunt, and seniors Sally Martin and Carolyn Brown. Freshman Beth Bruinsma also played an important role.

Illness affected the Laker performance at the state meet, and the favored Lakers wound up finishing second to David Douglas. Individual and team relay performances were outstanding, especially Sue Habernigg's state record breaking time in the 200 medley.

The boys had one of their strongest teams in several years and were paced by seniors Doug Moshofsky, Loren Chin, and Kent Frederickson, and by junior Bob Burrow and freshman Eric Lake. At the state tournament the team finished 8th even though they had only 6 qualifying individuals out of ten possibile. The 400 freestyle relay team finished in second place, just .01 from first. Doug Moshofsky had two fine fourth place finishes.

SKI TEAM

The ski team's goal this year was to improve in slalom skiing so they could perform better in Wilco League competition and qualify for the State Championships. Both the boys and girls achieved these goals.

The boys were led by Tom Whiteford, John Heestand, John Germond and Bob Fix to a third place Wilco finish. The girls were led by Patti Sherman, Trisha Barnard, and Suzanne Tarro. They were second in the Wilco until a disappointing final slalom meet dropped them to fourth place. Both the boys and girls times were combined to give the Lakers a third place finish in the Mount Hood Championships. After several bad runs the team finished in ninth place at the Oregon Interscholastic Ski Racing Championships held in Ashland. Individually, John Heestand finished seventh and Tom Whiteford tenth in combined slalom and giant slalom competition.

Coach Casey expressed satisfaction with the team's improvements but remarked that the team was hurt by some erratic performances. Overall, the skiers improved their skills and did well in a very tough league.

Season record: 2-6-1

This year's wrestling team had a tough season, finishing with a 7-12-2 record. Coach Taylor was quoted as saying, "It was a building year, a good beginning." Lack of participants has contributed to the team's problems, and they were not always able to field a complete roster of grapplers. Coach Taylor anticipates a better turnout and interest next year.

The 1980-81 team should have a much better year. There are only two seniors graduating, and four members of this year's squad qualified for district. Todd Fauvelle placed third at the district meet, while John Webb and Leigh Dodson placed fourth and Brett Malone sixth.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The Lakers came of age during the 1979-80 season. After posting an impressive record the year before, the Lakers went right out and improved their status in league and state competition this year. Led by the senior trio of Darlene Davis, Amy Bullard and Stephanie Heisler, the Lakers raced through their regular season with a 20 win-1 loss record. In that span, the Lakers knocked off the number one ranked team in the state, Hillsboro, in four overtimes, in probably one of the most exciting games in the short history of Laker Girls' Basketball. The Lakers finished off their league foes and won their first Willamette Valley League championship. However, their season did not end there as the state tournament was their next goal. The Lakers won 3 of 4 games at the tournament and took home the third place trophy. They also claimed the third place trophy for sportsmanship.

In the short history of Laker Girls' Basketball, this was the most successful year. Finishing with a 23-2 record and placing Darlene Davis on the first team for All-League, All-Metro, All-State, and All-Tournament teams was a big success. Amy Bullard was also voted to the first team All-League, second team All-Metro and fourth team All-State. Next year looks just as good, if not better, for the Laker Girls' Basketball team with nine returning varsity players.

J.V. BASKETBALL

The J.V. team had an up and down year and finished the season with an 8-10 record. Most of the games were very close and weren't decided until the last minutes. The team was strongest defensively and yielded opponents an average of only 31 points per game.

Top scorer was Julie Peebles, and Carman Warren led in steals and directed the offense from the point position. Coach Pepper commended the play of Heidi Taylor, Kathy Jordan, and Allison Holt, who all made strong contributions throughout the year.

Several players new to Laker basketball participated. Of these, Lynn Kershaw was recognized as the most improved. The year of J.V. experience should help these individuals contribute on future Laker teams.

FROSH BASKETBALL

The Freshman girls had a very successful year, finishing with a 17-3 record. The team played well together; their aggressiveness, intensity, and capacity to learn accounted for their success.

Amy Cannon led in scoring with an impressive 14.6 average. She was followed closely by top rebounder Lisa Rowning who scored at an 11.6 clip. Jennifer Bowers scored 6.0 and shot a fine 80% from the free throw line. Defensively Clare Krill and Lisa Schlenker paced the team with their quick and aggressive style of play. The remaining Lakers all contributed on the floor and with their winning attitude.

BASEBALL

This year's varsity baseball team had the potential for a championship season, especially after gaining the experience of playing together for a summer in the American Legion program. With nine players returning prospects looked good. However, as the season got under way, the tables turned. Inconsistency was the main problem; hitting would be good one game and the pitching weak. The next game the Lakers might have strong pitching but little hitting to back it up.

Even though the team finished with a disappointing 6-14 record, there was good improvement and team spirit. Several individuals were selected to the WVL All-Star team: Mark Stathas (first team), Charley Austin (second team), Brent Stumme and Chris Abbott (honorable mention). The Lakers have the attitude necessary to continue to improve and develop a solid league contender.

JV-FROSH BASEBALL

The J.V. baseball team lost several tough one-run games to finish with a 7-15 record. Coach Doty described his players as "tough, improving, with good perspective and personality." Rich Haugen paced the team in batting with .517. Glenn Hoffinger was selected as team MVP. Coach Doty praised John Jones as a top defensive player, Victor Lortz as a fine all-around player, and Dwight Meeuwsen as the team's best pitcher.

The nineteen members of the freshman team were enthusiastic in the effort to improve their skills and through many hours of practice were able to see some results. Leading hitters on the team were Bob Griffith at .304, Jim Greaper at .295, and Trip Turner with a .280 average. The pitching staff was led by Griffith, Turner, Bob Fix, and Mark Baysinger.

SOFTBALL

The varsity softball team came out of a dark shadow to surprise everyone. With only three starters back from the previous year's league champion team, the girls had an impressive 15-4 record and defeated a very tough Oregon City team for the District 4 championship. Beating Aloha, the defending state champion, 10-2 in the state tourney was a satisfying victory, but the Lakers fell just short of making the semi-finals with a tough 2-1 loss to Marshall in extra innings.

Andrea Teegarden with the Big Bat led the team with a .446 average, 16 extra base hits, and 33 rbi's. She was selected to the first team All-League squad.

Stephanie Heisler led the pitching staff with twelve wins and an E.R.A. of 1.8. She had 108 strikouts in 92 innings and also made the first team squad.

Lynne Mock, another first team choice, didn't strike out all season.

Sophomore Cathy Brown and freshman Lisa Rowning had strong seasons and were also all-stars. They should be the nucleus of next year's club.

TRACK

GIRLS

The Lakers finished the season with a dual meet record of 6 wins and 1 loss. They competed in the Aloha Invitation, where they finished 5th, only seven points behind the first place team. One of the highlights of the season was the performance in the Canby Invitational where places were determined on the basis of combined boys' and girls' totals. The Lakers captured the first place trophy. The Lakers hard work and great competetive spirit paid off as they capped the season by winning the WVL Track Championship.

BOYS

The Laker Boys compiled a 6-1 league record and finished second in the WVL, just 4 points behind Lakeridge. Several individuals placed high at the district tournament. The Lakers were also champions at the Canby Invitational. Coach Bowman said about the season: "We had an outstanding season and finished much stronger than predicted. We had a fine group of athletes, especially in terms of positive attitude and willingness to work."

BOYS' TENNIS

The Laker boys' tennis team had another excellent season, going undeafeted and making it 32 straight league victories over a three-year period. The team won the WVL championship and had some high individual performances in the district tournament.

Doug Haas was the runner-up at district for the second consecutive year in singles competition. Steve Nelson and Craig Baillargeon played great tennis to capture the district doubles championship. Tim Beals and Dan Leedy also performed well and finished third in doubles. Bob Martin, Baillargeon and Nelson went undefeated in league play this year.

Coach Long commented, "Good team depth was a big factor in our success. We have a good group coming back next year."

GIRLS' TENNIS

The Laker Girls' Tennis team had a great season, finishing with an 11-0 WVL record and 13-2 overall. They were the Wilamette Valley League champions. In addition, the team placed a very respectable fourth at the State Tennis Tournament.

In District play Cherie Brambilla placed third in singles and was a consolation winner at State. Charlene and Julie Wolfard won the District doubles title and made it to the State quarter-final round before losing.

The team's strength was its depth. Tremendous individual improvement was evident, and with several players returning next year the team should once again be a top contender inthe WVL.

BOYS' GOLF

The Laker golf team captured a share of the WVL championship with a 12-2 match record and two second place finishes at the district tournaments. They tied McMinnville by playing their season's best round in the final district tournament. In the State tourney at Glendoveer the Lakers finished 12th, but team members felt that they didn't play to their potential.

Individually, Kirby Kanada made the First Team District All-Stars, and Dave Bushnell, Mike Benjamin, and Scott Sprague earned selections on the Second Team.

Although seniors Dave Bushnell and Dave Smith will be missed, the Lakers anticipate a good year ahead with 4 of the varsity lettermen returning.

GIRLS' GOLF

This year's golf team enjoyed a respectable 7-2 league record and had two second place finishes at the district tournaments behind eventual state champion Lakeridge. The Lakers finished ninth in the State Tournament, a fine accomplishment considering that the team competed with three freshmen this year.

Beth Reading, Kristen Arnston, and Karen Campbell all shot well enough to make the All-District team. The team's two seniors, Jennifer Labs and Beth Reading, will be sorely missed, but the Lakers should come back as a strong contender in the league next year.

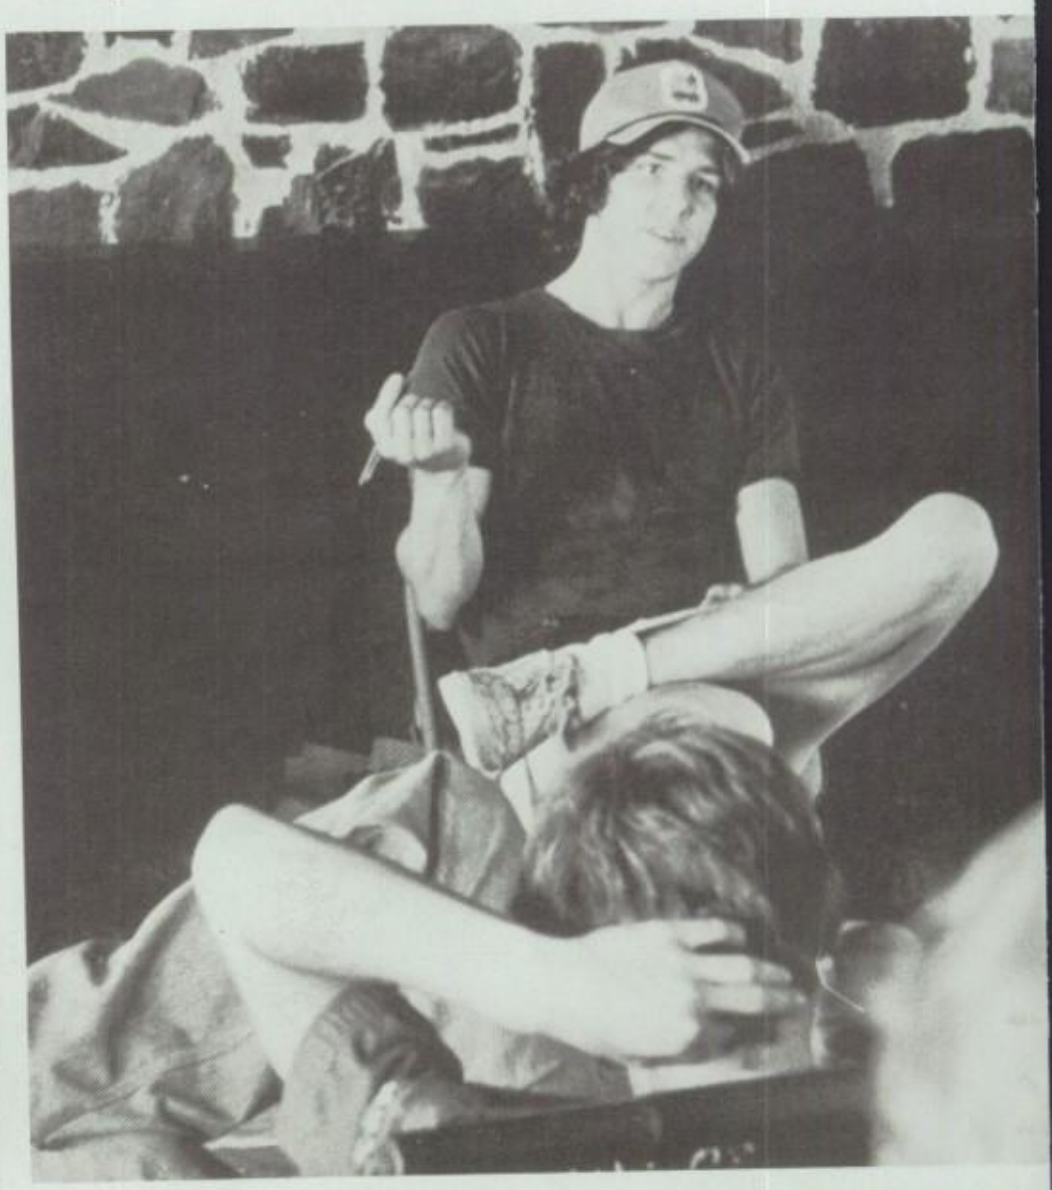
LEADERSHIP WORKSHOP

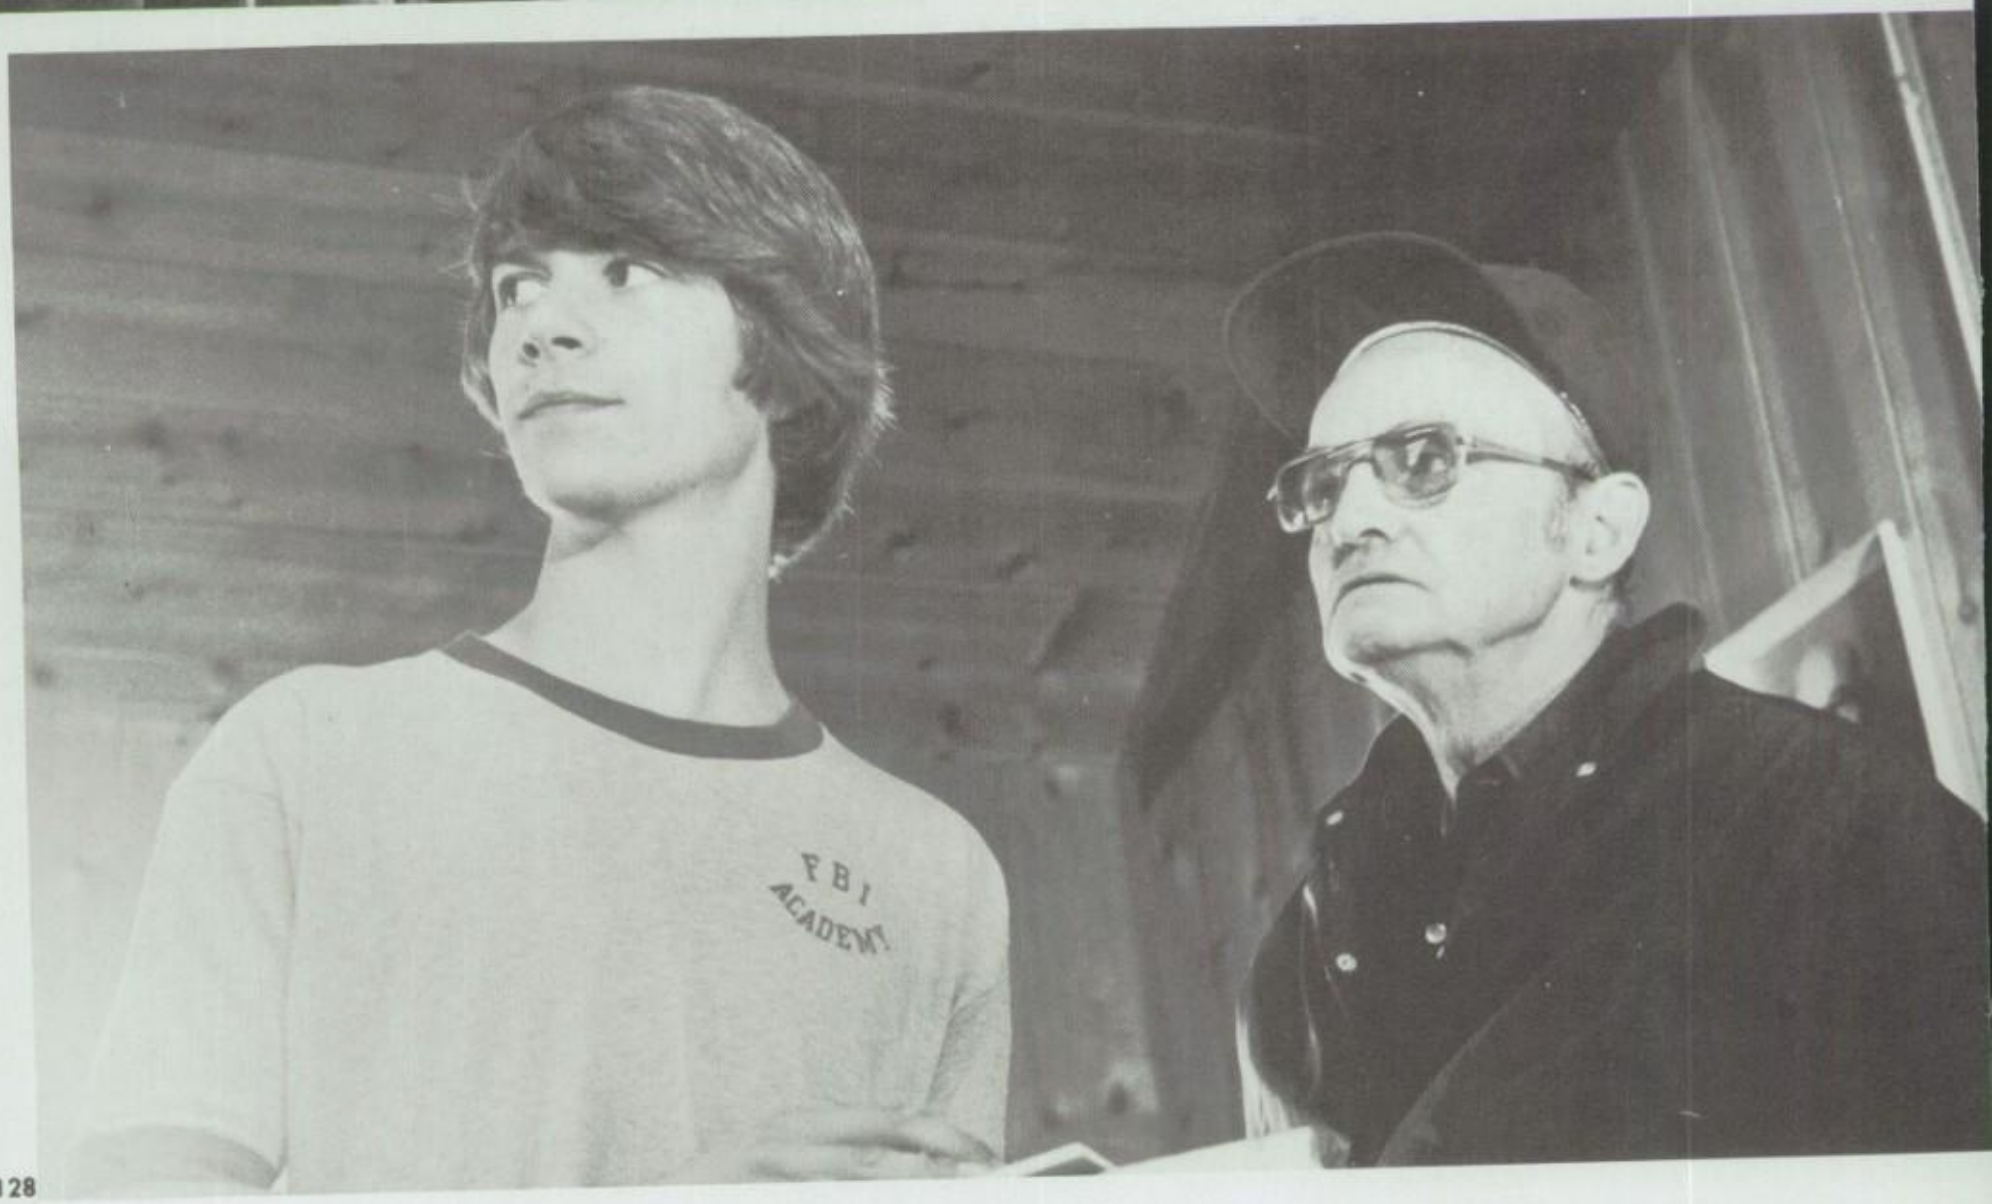
LEADERSHIP WORKSHOP was held on Sept. 22-23, at Camp MacGruder. During those two days, the ASB cabinet, class officers, senators, alternates, and clubs and committee chairmen divided up into groups to learn basic leadership skills, go over parliamentary procedure and learn how to write a senate bill. They then had class meetings and a senate meeting where six bills were presented.

About 78 students attended and most felt it was worth their time and effort. The only complaint was the food, which was typically "camp food". The free hours were spent at the beach, around campfires, and playing games.

The two days together helped everyone to become acquainted with other members of student government. This closer relationship made it easier to work together and communicate ideas and concerns.

1. Andy Schenk lecturing to students.
2. Scott Sundholm, Ron Madrosen, Dr. Lindersmith, Tad Schmit, Lisa Howard, Anne Englerdt, and Jeremy Bruce listening and learning.
3. ASB president John Rudi consults with Mr. Rodes about workshop agenda.





A.S.B. CABINET

The 1979-1980 Associated Student Body Cabinet worked extremely hard this year on many traditional school projects. They helped to coordinate Homecoming, Christmas, and May Fete activities, sponsored dances, and other fundraisers, and represented the interests and concerns of the student body at Senate meetings.

Among other projects, the A.S.B. organized the charity food drives during the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons. Christmas stocking for underprivileged children in the area was another project that was organized by the A.S.B.

The Cabinet's responsibilities are many and varied. Their efforts help to establish a better environment for the entire school community.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The 1980 class officers did a commendable job during this school year. Selling doughnuts in the cafeteria and sponsoring school and class dances were only two of the ways in which each class raised money for its treasury. Money earned by the junior class was used to pay for the Prom, which they traditionally organized for the graduating class, while senior class funds were used to purchase a lasting gift for the school, another L.O.H.S. tradition.

But raising funds wasn't the only job of the officers. They were also called upon to coordinate efforts for special activities participation. The supervision of Homecoming float building and the organization of May Fete skits and activities were among their responsibilities.

Another very important part of the class officers' job was to increase class unity, participation, and spirit, not only during these special events, but all year round as well.

Tropical Paradise

HOMECOMING

Warm weather and festive clothing added authenticity to this year's HOMECOMING theme — TROPICAL PARADISE.

The week began with the election of the princesses and with Andy Schenk and John Lafitte skateboarding into action and chasing beautiful natives like Ed Fullman and Brandon Stumpf. Unsuccessful with these two lovelies, they lost their hearts to nine beautiful Homecoming princesses.

Seniors won the spirit contest with most participation during the dress-up days. First place in the sign contest went to the juniors. There was much uncertainty over which class won the float contest, but each class's entry was deserving of the prize.

Activities for the week included the traditional events like the slave sale, dress-up days, and the car bash, which offered the opportunity for students to release aggressions for a mere 25 cents.

On Thursday evening members of the student body, faculty, and community gathered in fine spirit to watch the Laker football team defeat Newberg 21-0. Queen Teri Griffith reigned at the game and at the traditional dance which followed.

If you were anywhere near A Street and George Rogers Park, you probably experienced the excitement that was felt by all of the spectators who came to see the traditional L.O.H.S. Homecoming Parade. Each of the four classes was represented by an original float, and many of the school organizations participated as well.

TROPICAL PARADISE was the theme of this year's float designs. Class spirit and cooperation were enhanced with the construction of the floats. The band, First Mates, Rally, and the Princesses contributed in making the 1979 Laker Homecoming Parade a success.

CHOIR

The choral program was a strong one again this year. Director Larry Cunningham returned from USC where he had been studying for a doctorate the previous year. The three choirs; Chamber, A Cappella and Concert Ensemble, had their first performance in the fall at a Concert held at Mountain Park Recreation Center. The next performance was the annual Christmas Concert first on December 18 for parents and the public, and again the next day for the student body. A spring choral workshop was held at Lake Oswego High School involving choirs form various schools aroud the state. All members of the three choirs worked hard this year as did the Poop Decks and The Dockside Dollies. These two groups perform at various school functions and spend many hours out of school working on their programs. The combined effort of everyone made the choir program a success.

WIND JAMMERS — MADRIGALS VARIETY SHOW

Windjammers and Madrigals combined their talents in a single show this year for the first time. The show was entitled The Variey Show. It openend with a solo "Something's Coming" sung by Nancy Omundson. The Windjammers performed many songs as a group and many with girls and boys only. They performed a small skit singing the song of "If I Had My Druthers" and "Put Em Back." The Madrigals acted out two musical skits, one with an Oriental theme, the other a Babes In Toyland. theme. A grand finale included all members of both groups singing "Be Back Soon" and a final bow. The show was a unique idea by Director Larry Cunningham and was well-performed.

AWESOME MT. ST. HELENS ERUPTS WITH FURY

MT. ST. HELENS and May 18, 8:31 a.m., do they ring a bell?

Not only was it a nice sunny day, it was a day that one of the strangest and most spectacular of natural phenomena you will probably ever witness occurred.

The once beautiful, glacier covered volcano underwent a drastic face change. The 9,677 foot peak is now reduced to 8400 feet of gray ash and mud. Its crater, recently only 1700 feet in diameter, is now nearly three miles wide and expanding. The entire north face of the mountain is completely gone, leaving an horseshoe shaped steaming gap in its place. Saddest of all, the beautiful Spirit Lake resort on the north slope is gone, buried in tons of debris, ash, and mud. It was the home of 84 year old Harry Truman, who chose to remain near the mountain rather than see the destruction of his home from afar.

In case the magnitude of the blast is not apparent to you, imagine the magnitude of the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima, and multiply its force by 2500. It amounts to an awesome explosion, powerful enough to flatten everything within a 15-mile wide arc and to throw 1.3 billion cubic yards of rock and ash into the skies. By Sunday night the ash had already drifted over Wyoming. By Wednesday it was over the Eastern Seabord and was expected to continue across the Atlantic.

The ash was one of the major problems, damaging more than 900,000 cars, stranding travelers, suffocating crops, killing cattle, and endangering the lives of people with respiratory problems. The big tragedy, however, was the death of more than twenty people who were in the area. As many as seventy remain unaccounted for.

Mudflows and flooding were other consequences of the eruption. The mud was more than thirty feet deep in some places, and as it rushed down the Toutle River valley it destroyed everything in its path, including stands of timber, bridges, homes, and millions of fish. It may take centuries for the devastated region to regenerate itself.

One the following Sunday, May 25, Mt. St. Helens again erupted sending a rain of ash into the Portland area which had previously been spared.

As of this writing, the mountain's future course is unknown. The events will undoubtedly interest us for a long time.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Due to hard work and lots dedication, the two Laker bands have largely improved their quality under the direction of Mr. Frank Chinn. The Concert Band, which has 50 members, has played at various assemblies and during half-time at football and basketball games.

The Stageband consists of 24 members who devote many hours in practices and performances. They received a superior rating at the WVL Stageband contest. They performed a Pops Concert with the Windjammers and the Orchestra, and participated in the Spring Musical and May Fete.

The Orchestra, under the direction of Sarah Lynn, appeared at assemblies and the Christmas Concert.

Throughout the year members of the community and the student body have enjoyed the music played by the bands and orchestra.

CHRISTMAS

The spirit of Christmas flowed through the Lake Oswego student body this year. Frosty weather set the mood for the week. M.C.'s Brock Loen and Andy Vessely started off the activities by announcing the selection of the eight Princesses — Michelle Fairchild, Julie Gomena, Geri Howe, Leslie Leatherman, Karen Morris, Diane Ostby, Sonja Stumme, and Lisa Taplet. Several days of Christmas activities and tradition followed including red and green day, red nose day, Santa's elves day, and the bringing of a prized possession day. Santa showed up and brought his reindeer along to the Princess Assembly.

A dance concluded the week and Queen Karen was crowned. The band Tobias performed.

During the week class doors were decorated in their customary colorful and creative way, and each class was responsible for decorating a tree. In addition, the students of LOHS can be proud of their continuing efforts on behalf of needy people in the area with their contributions of food and Christmas stockings for youngsters.

The play takes place in America in the early 1900's when the elfin witchboy John falls in love with beautiful Barbara Allen whom he will marry if she is true to him. After the marriage Barbara gives birth to a child who is burned by the midwives as a witch. In the frenzy of the religious revival, Barbara is led to betray her bewitched husband in order to break the spell. She dies and he returns to the world of the mountain witches.

RALLY

Even before the school year started, the rallies began making up routines and planning for the coming year. During the fall rallies cheered at football and soccer games. They made locker tags, signs, and decorated the halls throughout the year. The fall Varsity Rally had the responsibility of organizing the varsity football Guardian Angels, while winter Rally organized the Hoopster Helpers for the basketball team.

Miss Wright, rally advisor, and Jeff Warner, rally coordinator, lended an organizational hand.

Besides their many game activities, this year's rally managed to organize pep assemblies to honor team members and rally school spirit for upcoming games. Ribbons and buttons promoting the teams were sold to the student body during the various seasons. A great deal of energy and time were devoted by all rally members, and it was a job well done and much appreciated by our athletes and the rest of the student body.

FIRST MATES

This year's 1979-80 First Mates team is comprised of twenty girls, each in her own way dedicated to the excellence of the team. With Millie Hoelscher as their coach, they put a great deal of time and effort to making each performance better then their last.

Showing their enthusiasm, ten of these girls over the summer went to the Drill Team World Camp, where they brought home 27 ribbons, a first place trophy for the "Best routine in the camp," and a first place trophy for the "most accumulated points." Each of these girls put time and effort into making these awards possible.

Our First Mates have brought home six trophies in the last three years. they preform at basketball games, football games, and assemblies. These students make the spirit of L.O.H.S. come alive.

May Fete

The 1980 May Fete theme was LEFT THE GOOD TIMES ROLL. The festival started out with the announcement of the 12 senior princesses: Andrea Abraham, Kelly Chandler, Kathy Dobson, Karen Eklund, Julie Fleischman, Ann Harding, AFS representative Marie Laot, Joan Mattison, Nancy McDonald, Jane Nothman, Marcee Shriver, and Mollie Skopil.

In breaking long tradition, this year's senior-faculty softball game and double lunch was cancelled due to a prank, and there were no dress up days this year.

1979 May Fete Queen Marcia Badgley returned to LO to crown her 1980 successor Kelly Chandler. Gifts from each class and from the faculty wee presented to the new queen. From the faculty Kelly received a gold pendant reading, "L.O.H.S. May Queen, 1980." From the seniors she received a stuffed GRUNT doll and a butterfly wall hanging; from the juniors a gold necklace, from the sophomore class a ceramic picture frame, and from the freshmen she received a gold necklace with a heart pendant. Afterward, each class performed its skit related to the LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL theme to Queen Kelly and her court.

SENIORS

The seniors finally won May Fete. Scott Sundholm, the class SO-CO was very organized and enthusiastic in putting together the winning skit. The theme dealt with the Dismalians, a group who hadn't experienced any fun for thousands of years. Amy Bullard, a Dismalian teacher, took her students on a tour of a Fun Museum when one of the students accidentally bumped skier Ed Fullman. He woke up all of the Fun people from the past and they taught the Dismalians all about having fun. The Dismalians were ready, but the Almighty ruler Jess had previously forbidden it. They asked Jess for his approval, and as he agreed everyone let the good times roll.

JUNIORS

The Junior skit was about students touring on the Magic Bus. They traveled about looking for fun; first to a school then to a city of fat people where laziness was the day's main activity. They were disappointed. The next stop was a city of fun and games. The heavy competitive attitude scared the kids, who sought merely a good time. Onward the bus went to Mr. Rogers' neighborhood, where the obnoxious behavior turned them off. The final trip was back home. The students had come to realize that you don't have to go anywhere special to let the good times roll.

SOPHOMORES

This year's Sophomore May Fete skit was entitled "The Good Times Service." It centered around the hopes of three people who wanted to fulfill their dreams of becoming important people. The skit began when secretary Leslie Leatherman left the janitors to clean up for the day. The janitors get a wild idea that success can come to them by going through a machine and having their lives transformed. After several experiences the janitors finally realize that they are important people as they really are.

FRESHMEN

The Class of '83 presented an imaginative skit this year. Its theme "The Good Times Island" focused mainly on the experiences of one person, Mike Kelly, who wanted to become an official Laker. He goes out for all the sports and auditions for the Windjammers, but he just couldn't qualify for anything. The skit ended when Mike finally realized that the Lakers are just too classy for him. He reluctantly decides to return to his old school, Lakeridge.

PROM

Stars and balloons depicted the theme of this year's prom "A NIGHT UNDER THE STARS." About 200 couples attended the event on May 31st at the Benson Hotel dressed in their best. The dimly lit majestic ballroom was a perfect setting for a romantic evening. Music was provided by the band AWOL. The evening was definitely delightful and memorable for those who attended.

The Honors Assembly is traditionally held in recognition of the many seniors who have received awards and scholarships and to recognize outstanding individuals who have dedicated a great deal of effort to our school.

The Class Will caused a bit of commotion when the seniors dedicated their hall to the sophomores.

Although there was much laughing and cheering throughout the assembly, there was a moment of solemnity when the Class Gifts were presented. In addition to the hall mat, a maple tree was given in memory of David Oka.

GRADUATION

Commencement exercises for the Class of 1980 were held on Tuesday, June 3rd. The weather spoiled the outdoor ceremonies, therefore the program was held in the main gymnasium. Addresses to the class, faculty, and visitors were given by Andy Schenk, who spoke as Class President about setting future goals, Dave Brown, who spoke about finding a united purpose, and Tim McCloskey, who talked about expanding our concerns beyond ourselves.

School Board Chairman Arleigh Dodson then presented the diplomas to a loud and enthusiastic group of graduates. The graduates left the gym to "Anchors Away," throwing caps into the air, and proudly clutching diplomas.

SENIOR PARTY

The Senior Party was full of excitement and thrills, even for the chaperones. Barely had we boarded the blue bus when it experienced an electrical failure, holding everyone up. But shortly we were rolling off to the Portland Skate and Disco Center where people paired up and found some refreshment, for the night would require much energy. The management was doubtless happy to see us leave, so they could get everything back into reasonable shape for the arrival of the Lakeridge seniors an hour later.

Things were rolling when we arrived at the Flamingo Motel, where we danced to "The Band of Punks" until 5 in the morning. A heartwarming breakfast was served at 4:30.

The chaperones handled everything quite well and the party was superbly organized. Marathon dancing and some entertaining individual bravado kept everyone in great spirits throughout the evening.

In all, the party was great fun. Tim McCloskey said, "I would go through it again if I could," and Julie Gomena's comment of "EEEOWW!" summed up senior feelings

The buses returned to school at 5:45 with everyone exhausted and sad that it was over. The Senior Class of 1980 owe a word of thanks to the organizers and chaperones for such a fine party. It was a blast!

DECA

The Distributive Education Club of America combines several special classes in math, marketing, advertising, and food services with business administration background to help develope future leaders in marketing and business fields. DECA members attended a conference and competition at the Jantzen Beach Center this year and all members received State Achievement Rewards. Dave Zeuske took a first place trophy for food services, qualifying him for national competition in Florida, and Dave Walker earned a third place ribbon in advertising. The conference was a valuable experience for all participants.

ASSEMBLY

The Assembly committee is responsible for planning and setting up all non-rally, non-ASB assembly activities. The group makes the crowns, memory books, and name tags for all festival princesses. They spend many hours decorating the gym to fit the appropriate themes and occasions. Their efforts help to make our holiday traditions and special events memorable.

ELECTIONS

This group is responsible for setting up all student elections, counting the votes, and determining winners. Their work is often tedious and time-comnsumming, yet it carries with it a great deal of responsibility.

MEMBERS ARE — Top: Scott Cameron and Jack Mitten. Bottom: Regis Burke and Scott Salmon.

OMEGA

Omega, Lake Oswego High School's chapter of the National Honor Society, was involved in many activities this year. The standards of the Omega club are not limited to academic excellence alone but require participation in several areas. To qualify, a student must attain a G.P.A. of 3.5. and maintain a 3.2 average to continue membership. Every student, from sophomore to senior year, is checked and those who qualify receive applications. Three other important criteria are considered on the basis of these applications + leadership, community service, and personal worth. Those who are selected can be proud of their many accomplishments. Omega officers pictured at right are Darlene Davis, Lisa Lortz, and Joan Mattison.

NFL

FIRE SQUAD

The many participants of this organization work to promote personal safety in the event of a fire or other emergency. They have area assignments and patrols to make evacuations run as smoothly as possible. They have had several practices during fire drills, all of which were successful.

FILM CLUB

As its name implies, the Film Club is an informal group of people who share a common interest. They sponsor, watch, and even make movies. Perhaps our future Hitchcocks, John Fords, Cappolas, and other greats will come from among this group. Members shown are; Nancy Walker, Scott Sundholm, Kris Gosling, Patti Fisher, Renee Irvin, and Tom Young.

ORIENTATION

These students are responsible for orienting new students to the strange new school they are entering. They show them around and help them to meet new friends. For a new student this can be a pleasant and friendly beginning. Shown in photo above are Dona McLean and Karen Shields.

AFS

AFS members say their interests are in meeting new people, organizing the exchange programs, and having fun. They have made it possible for foreign students to visit and study at LOHS for several years, and their efforts have contributed to the organization of this year's reciprocal visit to Wolverhampton by many of our students and staff. Shown above are: Rob Brennan, Joan Steinkamp, Marie Loat, Aleih Shear, Sharon Tannler, and Guy Holady. At right is Marie Laot, an exchange student from France.

LAKE VIEWS

The leadership of Editor-in-Chief Dave Brown, the excellent reporting of Charlie Bach and Anne Taylor, the enthusiasm of Sports Editor Steve Turcotte, and the hard work of a large and energetic staff helped to put out an interesting and entertaining school newspaper this year.

Lake Views explored in-depth such widely varied subjects as the administrators' mishandling of an attendance bill, religion in L.O.H.S., a teacher evaluation, the staff, censorship, and summer activites, However, the outstanding innovation of the year was Fake Views, an April 1st spoof.

With an eight page paper every month, the Lake Views staff kept the school informed and had a great time doing it.

LAKER LOG

The 1980 Yearbook staff worked hard this year to produce a quality product. Under the guidance of yearbook adviser Eric Pepper and editor Christina Blumel, many things were accomplished. Because of the large and well-motivated staff, things were completed that had never been tried before.

Under the direction Kelly McDermott and Shari Summers, senior questionaires were passed out and their responses put in the yearbook in an effort to make it more personalized and memorable to students in later years. Carolyn Holman designed logos and several special drawings that made pages special. Susan Martin, in her capacity as head of the special events department, made sure that the exciting and special moments of the year were recorded. The sports pages also took on new meanings under the direction of Dean Davis. Thanks to the people mentioned and all the other special members of the log staff, the book turned out to be a fun and exciting project for everyone involved.

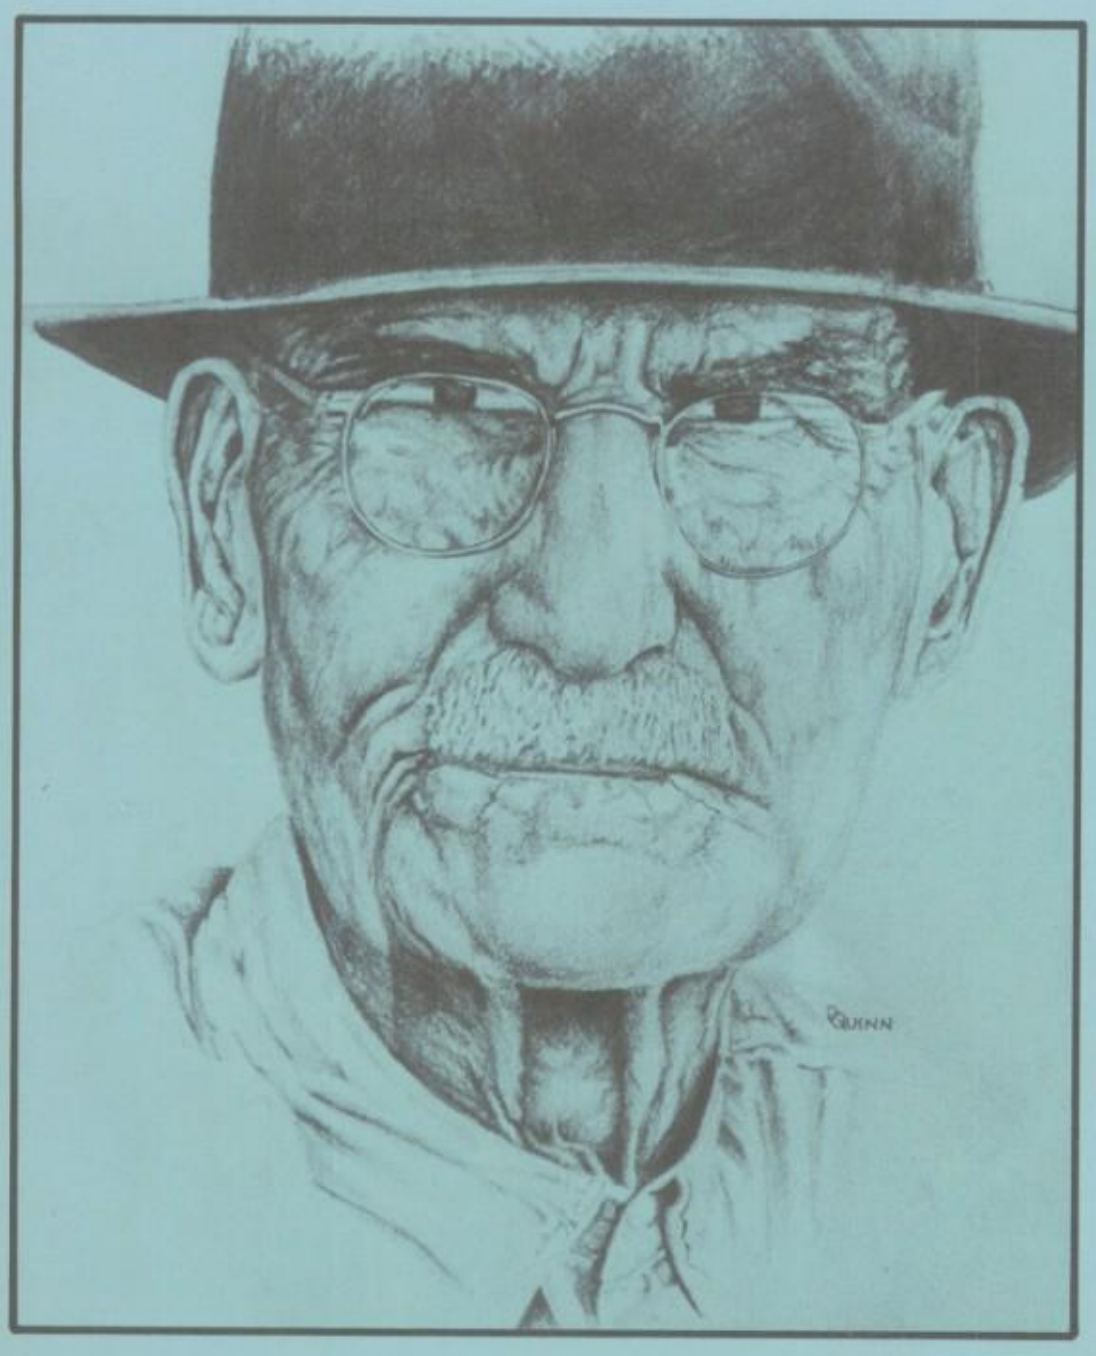
MAINSHEET '80



Pencil — Doug Quinn

To be old

The endless hours drag on and on.
Rooms once filled with shouts and laughter
Now echo in the silence.
There is no sound but the rhythmic tick of a clock and the continuous creaking of an old wicker rocking chair.

Together they sit, day after day, sharing the fate of loneliness.
Never a call, never a friendly letter to raise a sagging spirit.
A single tear slides down a wrinkled cheek and over quivering lips.

Eyes stare vacantly through a misty curtain of tears

at the world beyond the window, Waiting . . . Waiting . . .

There was a time
when the world was dark and people were unheard of . . .

There were no plants,
there was no grass,
and all was dark above . . .

The air was thick,
the ground was hard,
the stars could not be seen . . .

This is where the world has been,
and it could all come again . . .

With people fighting,
and fires lighting,
and children starving everywhere . . .

When countries are mad,
and wars are near,
the folks begin to fear . . .

But no one stops
this awful mess,
no one seems to care . . .

Listen to me
I speak the truth,
just you wait and see . . .

There will come a time
when the world goes dark, and people are unheard of . . .

Pursued

The street-lamp threw an eerie glow down upon the worn sidewalk. The terrified girl rushed past the black, staring store windows, head down, heart pounding. If she could only make it just a few more blocks, if only the bus was on time, she could ride home in safety. She clutched her coat nearer to her to ward off the piercing December wind.

She was almost to the bus-stop when she heard the rapid, muffled foot-steps behind her. She quickened her pace and held her breath as she heard the heavy steps closing in behind her. Closer . . . Closer . . . closer they came — but she made it. The bus met her at the corner and she scrambled up the steps and into the sanctuary of it's brightly lit interior. She collapsed into a seat and began to breathe again; it was then that the thought struck her. She wasn't sure if her pursuer had followed her onto the bus or not! As she was too terrified to survey the seats around her, she merely sat, stiffly focusing her eyes on the dark head seated in front of her; the coarse black hair was drawn into a severe bun, accented by a pencil the owner had forgotten to remove from behind her ear. The harder the girl concentrated the more familiar the head in front of her seemed . . . but why was it familiar, unless . . . unless . . . She lept for the door with a startled gasp, causing the driver to bring the bus to a screeching halt. She flew out the back door with her pursuer, the woman with the black bun, only a few steps behind her. She raced down the pavment, but the margin between them closed rapidly until it had disappeared entirely, much to the poor girl's horror.

The woman seized the frightened girl by the arm and pushed her up against the side of an empty building. The girl was too terrified to speak for a moment, but then she regained contorol of her voice.

"Please, Ms. Librarian," she stammered. "If you let me go this time, I swear I'll never lose another library book!"

And Then The Darkness

A wall of rock — and then the darkness.

He awoke. Locked in a misty daze, he stared at his lifeless companion. He had to get him out. Thoughts whirling, the lanky blond stumbled over the stones and debris to the left side of the chopper. Upon touching his friend's arm, everything suddenly became clear and in focus as if the strangeness of the contact had formed a cool frost on his brain.

He pulled the body from the craft and sat away from it with his head in his hands. Then he began to feel the pain — the sting of salty tears, the halo of disbelief, encompassing his heart, and the ache of damaged organs.

The dreams of fire and terror passed with the night, and steel dawn signaled his trek down the mountain. Step by step, knees trembling and pain worsening, he carried the body. He couldn't leave it up there. It was too cold. Jim didn't like the cold.

By means of some miracle he withstood the pain from his insides and the awkward weight of the body resting somewhat stiffly over his shoulder until he reached the foot of the mountain. There the setting sun saw his collapse. Hands clutching his frozen friend, his last remaining rays of life were slowly extinguished with the rays of the sun. And then the darkness . . ..

a loving friend
she's always there
though she's not my shadow she's always been there a section of my heart
she does the things
i've never dared
she watches over me
so that i don't
those twinkling eyes
that rosy face
a comforting voice
a spiteful tongue
she makes me laugh
or hurts my feelings
she makes me cry
or cheers me up
a tender touch
a familiar way
a loving friend —
a sister

Ivy

Clinging to that decaying tree, sucking and drawing the last ebbs of life from it.
Only you and the blackberry vine survive the ice

And live to tell of the trees around you, cracked and dying.
Then you finish them off, one by one merciless parasite that you are.

2:35 and 26 seconds . . .
i stare at the hands
as they unflinchingly creep around the perimeter of the face.
this is insane,
i remind myself for the thirtieth time.
staring at my watch
and aiming telepathic messages at the phone
is not going to induce him to call . . .
but still i persist.
if only he'd call,
i'd have so much to say —
jokes to tell, opinions to defend, dreams to share . . .
but still that stubborn, yellow box on the wall
will not cooperate;
it sits silently, collecting dust
along with me . . .
just one lousy ring is all that i ask — (just so i can make mom answer the phone while i sit counting to ten before i answer so as not to seem too anxious) i've got so much to tell him!
if only the phone would ri-

The Letter

The morning that he had left had been like any other morning. The birds were singing, there was a gentle breeze blowing, and the sun was just starting to break through the morning clouds. His mother was crying, and his father was trying not to cry although his eyes were moist and his nose a little runny. The sunligtht reflected brightly off his uniform. He was proud to be going to Veitnam, especially as a pilot. When he got back, he would be able to get a scholarship to the state university. Of course his father would have trouble running the farm while he was gone, but the money that he would be sending home would more than make up for that. When the bus came, he gave them each a hug before disappearing.

Upon arriving at San Diego, he was assigned to an aircraft carrier whose planes made daily strikes into the heart of Vietnam. As soon as his ship arrived on station, he was given his first mission. It was a simple mission; he could do it alone. All he had to do was fly a little way into the interior of Vietnam on a scouting mission. After he took off, he felt the elation that he always felt when he was flying. He carefully searched the ground and air all the way to his destination. Upon arriving, he felt a sudden surge of joy. He brought the plane into a steep climb, rolling as he went.

The Vietnamese pilot never saw his intended victim; it was still a blip on his radar screen when he fired the missile. When the missile hit, all the Vietnamese pilot saw was the blip disappear off his radar screen.

September 28, 1968, was a good day for America. Only twenty-three Americans were killed in Vietnam. September 28 was also a good day for the flight commander of the ship. He had to notify only one person's next of kin, and he had already mailed that letter.

The morning that the letter arrived had been like any other morning, only now the birds weren't singing anymore.

reminiscing

the days have passed so quickly by i long to relish in the memories — to linger in security.
skinned knees, muddy sneakers snow cones, jumping rope hopscotch, chasing butterflies
oh — the complications of life riding a tricycle running through a sprinkler fuzzy mittens, black patents waiting up for santa my childhood . . .
skipping down a sidewalk
plunging into life

Mingling

Sitting amongst the cigarette butts and ashes, the girl could hear the boisterous laughter and footsteps from outside. Soon after the bell rang, the noise subsided; everything was quiet.

The tile floor where she crouched was cold; a shiver ran up her spine. Slowly she reached shakily into her overstuffed purse and brought out the shiny blade.

Looking into it she could see her distorted reflection. Her dark hair fell in curls around her face, making her light complexion look pale. From the sharp, distinct features of her face large eyes protruded. They had a glossy, far-away expression because of the sedatives she'd taken.

She stared at her hand. The fingers were long and graceful, almost like white doves when they moved.

Suddenly, with a sweeping motion she cut. The only sounds heard were the grating of flesh and the dripping of red-brown fluid as it flowed into the pinkish toilet water.

It seemed as if all her fears were spilling out; with that thought she cut deeper. She felt no pain, only relief as she grew faint and slumped to the floor, her blood mingling with the ashes.

Night of the Dreadful Deed

I don't know what made me do it. I had always thought of myself as fairly mature, balanced person. I suppose I just didn't fully comprehend my actions. As I crept up the creaking stairs that never before had creaked, I felt slightly disoriented, but that was more than compensated for by my inherent killer instinct and solidarity of purpose.

The house seemed to be breathing in unison with me. The walls curved as if I were viewing them through some huge lens of some kind. Suddenly — what was that? Again that sound was audible! I distinctly heard a slow, throbbing bub, bub, bub. I could have sworn the house had a heart of its own.

I stealthily continued up the steps. As I drew near the object of my execution, I felt an overwhelming sense of victory. There it was, unsuspecting of the horrible emptiness to which it would soon fall victim.

The heart was beating faster and faster. The walls were breathing harder, quicker. I could feel a cold sweat break out all over my trembling body. My palms were clammy with the anticipation of the conquest.

From a distant dimension I perceived my hand tentatively stretch out before me. Slowly, ever so carefully, I wrapped my shaking fingers one-by-one about the cold steel and with one agonizing pull that pained my whole body through and through. I gazed upon the forbidden contents that unfolded in all their glory before me. A can of soda, thick French bread, fresh creamery butter, salami, creamy, delicate cheeses, last night's birthday cake — all were awaiting their demise on the Night of the Dreadful Deed!

Free Spirit

she sits in her chair
on the front porch
gently rocking, rocking . . .
her tranquil blue eyes
taking in the activity around her.
the barefoot children
playing tag in the street
'neath the hot summer sun take little notice of her.

to them,
she is the nice little-old-lady who gives out apples
at Halloween.

but to her,
they represent life.
young as they are,
they take for granted that she
is merely sitting,
rocking her days away . . .

but she knows better;
for although her body
sits in the chair gently
gently rocking, rocking
her soul is running barefoot with them
playing tag in the street
'neath the hot summer's sun.

Of Past and Present

the moon smiles down upon orderly rows
of now deserted chairs.
only hours earlier
the chairs were filled with beaming, expectant senior faces waiting with anticipation for their brief moment on stage . . .
tearful embraces,
goodbyes laced with promises —
they stand on the threshold of adulthood wondering if that's where they want to be.

one last night
of high-school frivolty
then on to new things.
— goodbye

it's almost frightening;
they say the death of one close to you brings your own mortality nearer . . .
so it is with me
and the graduation of my friends — it's wonderful but
a little too close to home.
